

BIG BOLD COLORFUL ANIMALS
photographs by Toni Bennett

This show includes six photographs of various animals I have met in my travels: goats from a local petting zoo, a ladybug I saw on the Queen Mary ship in Long Beach, CA, a heron at Sea World in San Diego, a parrot from Hawaii, an owl at a county fair in Shelton, WA, and a bucking horse at a rodeo, also in Shelton.

Although I take many different kinds of photographs, my special focus is on the world of animals, including wild animals, pets, and “working” animals. In that last category, I specialize in ranch and farm animals.

In addition to visiting ranches, farms, and zoos, I love photographing people’s pets. My own pets refuse to be photographed after the age of four weeks. At that point, they have learned how to fly and know how to get away from my camera. (I have 17 Society finches.)

If you have any animals you would like photographed, shoot me an email at:

bennettpix@uccellipress.com

